Stories Have Power: A Youth Cultural Revitalization Program

Princess Colegrove

Maiya Rainer

Skip Lowry

Participants will engage with State Park Interpreters who are members of the local Indigenous community, and will learn through songs, stories and activities that are culturally appropriate and place based. The goal of the program is to give every participant a better understanding of their own tribal heritage and the knowledge that their story is important and powerful. Sessions will be held at Sumeg Village in Patricks Point State Park!

First six-week session begins September 19th!

6-8th grade, maximum of six boys and six girls

10:00am - 12:30pm
